Raj Manek Mentorship Program (RMMP) protégés now have further opportunities to invest in activities promoting the economic development of the Saskatoon region.

The Saskatoon Regional Economic Development Authority Inc. (SREDA) announced the development of the Raj Manek Entrepreneurial Investor Program Friday, an extension on SREDA's Private Sector Investor Program. Raj Manek students, who have participated in one-on-one mentoring with established business experts, will now be invited to Private Sector Investor events and networking opportunities and have their company listed on SREDA's website.

"We are honoured to have an organization such as SREDA become a supporting organization of the mentorship program," stated Kanchan Manek, RMMP co-ordinator. "The opportunity to join forces with SREDA is tremendously exciting.

"We view the relationship as one which will add value to our protégés by expanding their network and adding to the resources they can access through our program."

Alan Migneault, CEO of SREDA, said one of its main priorities is to engage entrepreneurs in the Saskatoon region.
